

ABOUT THIS BOOK

B.J. Luther was one of 30 black New York City Housing Authority detectives, and he was assigned to the Hammel's Houses Projects in Rockaway Beach, Queens, New York.

B.J. retired from the NYC PD Homicide division after serving there for 20 years and was recruited to work with NYCHA while it built its police force in the early 1980's.

Expecting to put in his time and just watch the clock as his pension built he was unpleasantly surprised when the projects tenant body count began to mount, and the Mayor was looking at blaming him for failing to do his job.

Follow Det. Luther aka B.J. as he takes on a growing, yet powerful health care operator driven to enrich themselves on the backs of the poor and underserved in volume 2 of MONTGOMERY'S Dark Tales collection, the "Hammel's Houses Murders".
