

ABOUT THIS BOOK

This story is about three people who decided to take a virtual reality stay at home vacation independent of each other. They go to a Virtual Reality Stay-Cation Salon and pay for one four day stay-cation package each.

Unfortunately the salon station Nurse got distracted with her selfish boyfriend and over dosed the three subjects a much deeper dream state than the virtual reality sub-routine normally required for first timer users.

One person was a young police detective who desired to see how it would be solving his first major case. The second person a middle aged fireman wanted to relive the saving of a close friend and fellow fire fighter. And the third person was a rookie NFL player who wanted to see what it would be like to win a Superbowl in his first season.

In the realm of virtual reality one must know which realm to delve into. Experiencing the difference between the dream realms is where our three stay-cationers find themselves while the distracted salon nurse does whatever adult babysitters normally do until it is time to bring the stay-cationers out of their dream states. Join us on this wonderful thrill ride into the deepest dream state known to mankind the realm of "Sudden Reality".

