

ABOUT THIS BOOK

This book is about a newly wedded couple who did not know each other very long before they married. Their wonderful lives were on a fast track to becoming the kind of story, fairy tales were made of, until they returned from their honeymoon and moved into their first apartment together.

While the husband was looking for a home cooked meal the wife was looking for take-out, so they settled for a server and a check. The problem was the restaurant they choose. Recently opened, it had rave reviews, high end ambiance, killer food and a reputation to die for, unbeknownst to its patrons. Like something out of the twilight zone but more real.

Join Brockington Withers and his wife Marla Sands as they enjoy their first dinner as Mr. and Mrs. Withers where, somewhere between the food and the dessert the two find out all they needed to know about the other and the life ahead of them on the fast track to hell at the 'Restaurant' for the dead.
