

ABOUT THIS BOOK

An unscrupulous landlord is trying to illegally evict a young pregnant, Iraqi War soldier's wife and her mother-in-law from their home of 25 years. U.S. Marshal Harry Bailey, who just returned from a reservist tour in Iraq, and is now on medical leave, rents an apartment from the same landlord as the two women.

During the tribulations of this young mother to be, Marshal Bailey realizes he has much more in common with her than he ever imagined.

Once he stumbles onto the true connection, he is compelled to help her, at all costs, even at the risk of ending the career, he has worked so hard to build.
