

ABOUT THIS BOOK

During his tour with Witness Protection, Marshal Bailey was assigned one of two witnesses, each testifying in two different cases but both were testifying against the same crime family.

Neither witness knew the other but they both had the same Loan Shark. Both witnesses were mistakenly sent to the same Witness Protection team with different Marshal's in charge of protecting them; until the Loan Shark ran into each of the witnesses at the Marshal's field office.

Problems arose when each witness tried to sell information on the other to their old Loan Shark in an effort to get out from under their debts.
